You Don't Have to be Well Known or Famous to Make a Million Dollars Playing the Guitar

Thanks for joining me for this Million Dollar Minute. I'd like to talk about Fame. My name is Douglas Niedt. Who? Exactly. My name is not a household word. I'm not even well known in the guitar world. What I hope will be an enlightening and freeing thought for you is this:

When I was young, I thought what most people think: I need to be well known and become famous in the guitar world to make serious money playing the guitar. It has amazed me through the years to learn that is absolutely not the case. Notice that the title of this book is not How to Be a Superstar Guitarist or How to Be a Famous Guitarist. The title is How to Make a Million Dollars Playing the Guitar.

The way you will succeed is by hanging in for the long haul. You will pay your dues, patiently study, and pursue opportunity your entire life. You will have the right mindset. You will find your mission, and pursue it relentlessly with white-hot desire. You will fail, but you will never, ever give up. You will learn from failure and move on. Stardom? Fame? Maybe, maybe not. You can make your million dollars with or without them.
